

Uth tutoring

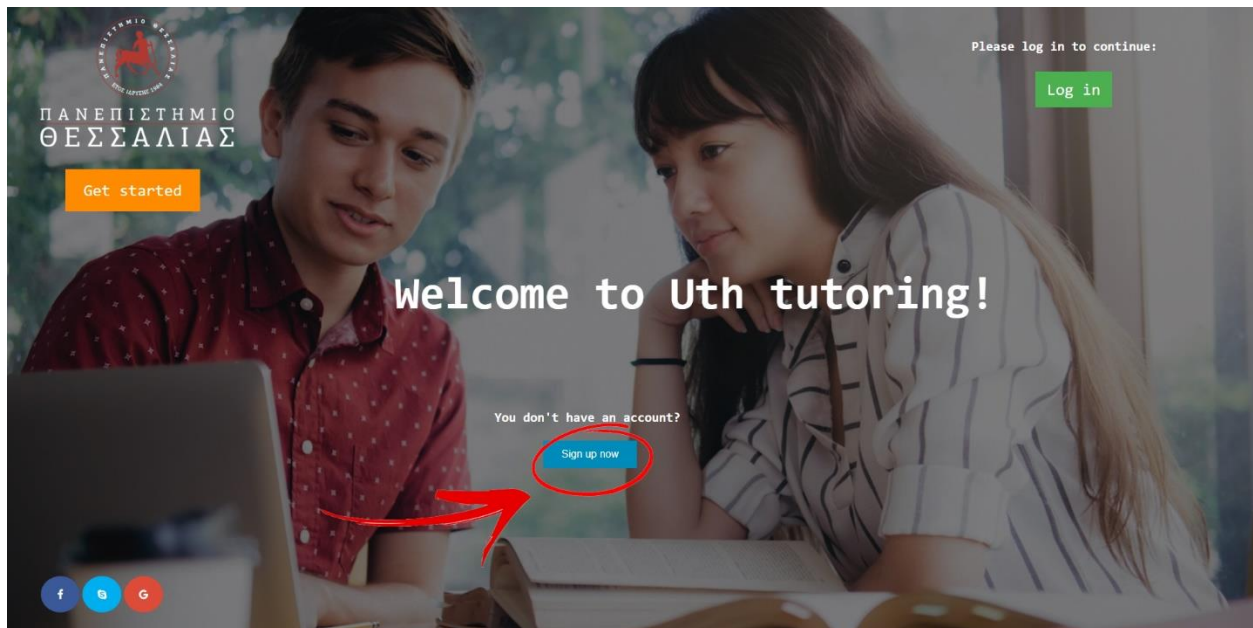

Welcome

Uth tutoring is a website that helps you communicate, work and learn with other individuals more efficiently and productively. It is a platform, made by students for students, that can provide you help with your studies since its purpose is to arrange a meeting between you and a volunteer in order to get tutored by him for free! But what if you don't feel that you need help and instead you feel like helping one of your co-students? Simple. You can sign up in our website and become a tutor yourself. Whether you struggle with your studies or doing just fine, a simple sign up can get you closer with great individuals from your department you might never heard of in order to help each other and make our university community a better place. Our platform is currently active only within the University of Thessaly's boundaries and more specifically in the city of Volos, but we are hoping to expand soon enough and make this website a universal solution for every student in the world.
